

Dear FCC,

I am writing you today to urge you NOT to repeal net neutrality. One of the best aspects of the internet is that it is an even playing field where everyone has equal access to information and to getting their message out and being heard. Income inequality already affects too many areas of life— we cannot allow the internet to become yet another place where only those who can afford to pay the most are able to even use the internet, or get the web traffic they want, and others be shut out. Please, please, please vote to keep net neutrality the way it is.

Best Regards,

Marcy Hogan
